"Lynx Air took to the Canadian skies for the very first time just over nine months ago, and we are excited to be already expanding across the border into the USA. The choice of Orlando as our first US destination was easy – it is a very popular holiday spot for Canadians, with its famous theme parks, world-class golf, and great weather of course!," said Merren McArthur, CEO of Lynx. "We are thrilled to offer an ultra-affordable option to travel between Toronto and Orlando. Whether you are traveling to visit family and friends or to sneak in a weekend getaway, Lynx will ensure a great flying experience at an ultra-affordable price."

"Lynx Air's decision to make Orlando its first American destination says a lot about the strength of the Canadian market and its ties to Central Florida," says Kevin Thibault, Chief Executive Officer of the Greater Orlando Aviation Authority. "Orlando International (MCO) is pleased to be the first U.S. airport to welcome Lynx Air as it expands its operations internationally."

"Lynx is launching new direct flight services to Orlando at the perfect time, ahead of popular booking periods, including March Break," said Casandra Matej, president and CEO for Visit Orlando. "Low-cost air carriers like Lynx are especially appealing for families and visitors on a budget, who we know are looking to escape the chilly winter temperatures and enjoy the sunshine in the world's theme park capital."

Lynx's US network will continue to expand over the next few weeks, with the planned launch of services out of Calgary to Phoenix, Los Angeles and Las Vegas. In total, Lynx will be operating over 5,000 seats to and from the US, giving Canadians an affordable option to visit some of the most popular sun destinations south of the border.
