Breeze began serving Orlando in June, 2022 and today provides year-round nonstop service to Akron-Canton, OH; Bentonville-Fayetteville, AR; Charleston, SC; Charleston, WV; Huntsville, AL; Portland, ME; and Providence, RI. The airline also offers seasonal service to New Orleans, LA, and Orange County, CA; and one-stop/no plane change BreezeThru service to Provo-Salt Lake City, UT, and Tulsa, OK. Breeze also announced new service last week from MCO to Plattsburgh, NY, starting November 28.

“This is our second new route announcement from Orlando in the last week, and we are adding on another underserved route,” said Tom Doxey, Breeze Airways’ President.

“Breeze provides convenient, affordable and comfortable service to previously unserved locations for the people in Central Florida.”

This new route will be flown on Breeze’s brand new Airbus A220-300 aircraft featuring three unique seating options, including Breeze Ascent, a generous recliner-style seat in a 2x2 configuration with 39 inches of seat pitch, 20.5 inches of seat width and special amenities such as complimentary snacks and drinks, including alcohol. Breeze offers its Guests both bundled and a la carte options known as Nice, Nicer and Nicest. Breeze Ascent is included in the Nicest bundle, or sold a la carte with Nice or Nicer.

In addition to featuring best-in-class economics, the A220 operates at lower noise levels, providing an exceptionally quiet and comfortable cabin. Wide seats combined with ample overhead storage create personal space without compromising on headroom, and the cabin management system will provide Breeze crews with easy, intuitive control of the aircraft’s interior environment. The A220-300 aircraft are powered by Pratt & Whitney PurePower PW1500G geared turbofan engines.
